FARM BUREAU INDORSES SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLAN

Bond Issue for Another Outfall Sewer Opposed as Futile and Wasteful—Economy of Conserving Solids for Fertilizer and Liquid for Irrigation

It should be cheering to the citizens' committee that is trying to work out the sewer problem for Glendale to know that organizations made up of intelligent citizens who have studied such matters are opposing the proposition to bond Los Angeles for another expensive outfall sewer and are proposing as a rational substitute the very plan upon which the committee is now working. The project committee of the Los Angeles farm bureau recently issued a report recommending thorough investigation before action should be taken to establish an outfall sewer, and a supplementary report has since been filed.

The report states that in the opinion of members of the investigating committee the plan of taking care of the sewage of Los Angeles by treatment in a modern plant and to use the effluent entirely for irrigation is quite feasible, and a much better and less expensive method than an outfall sewer. Lieut.-Col. Edward Bartow, one of the foremost sewage experts in the United States, is quoted in the report as stating: "It seems to be a great mistake to run the sewage into the ocean when there is a possibility of putting in a treatment plant and using the water from the plant for irrigation and the sludge obtained for fertilizer." He further states that Southern California is the best place in the United States for operating an activated sludge plant.

Tentative plans for the construction of three treatment plants at which it was proposed to handle Los Angeles sewage have been worked out, the report states, and are in possession of the city engineer, together with detailed suggestions for a distributing system which would place the effluent on the dry land between Los Angeles and the sea. Distribution costs at the State Land Colony at Delhi range from $43.80 an acre to $60 an acre, and the report states that these charges show that to install a distributing system would not entail a prohibitive expenditure.

The committee estimates that at present prices, with running water worth $1000 an inch in Southern California, the total sewage effluent of the city has a value for irrigation purposes equal to a capital investment of $7,000,000, and for this reason, the report says: "It can be readily seen that it pays highly to conserve and distribute this water, for while land dry-farmed has a potential producing power of $30 per acre per annum, the same land under irrigation has a potential producing power of $300 an acre."

"Aqueduct water," the report says, "is not unlimited in supply and can be better used elsewhere than in the territory between Los Angeles and the ocean."

Boy Yells at President

(By International News Service)

BROOKLYN, June 7—At the Twenty-third Regiment review recently Donald Tomkins, thirteen years old, was sitting in the center of the armory. President Harding in reviewing the front rank passed about ten feet from the center.

Donald yelled "Hello Warren!" and the President immediately stopped and, going over, shook hands with the flustered boy.

Today the lads of the Flatbush section are shaking the hand that shook the hand of President Harding.

EDGAR COLVIN HOST TO CLASSMATES AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

In celebration of his thirteenth birthday, Edgar Colvin was host last evening to the Knights of Honor class of the Presbyterian church, whom he entertained at a prettily appointed dinner at 6 o'clock at his home, 1235 East Lexington drive.

Masses of golden nasturtiums, which the poet has called the "oriole of flowers," were arranged by Edgar's mother in an original and beautiful decoration of the table, where places were marked for Mrs. Henry Lawrence, the teacher of the class, who was a special guest, Howard Richardson, James Fife, Spencer Bellew, Riley Lyons, Lynn Criswell, Clay Rapp, Herbert Jolly, Freeman Brandt, Dorsey Mottern, Dana Van Loon, Lyle McAllister, Norman Axep, Howard Rettburg, Darrell Korb, Leroy Tepe, Fred Fallis, Wesley Lawyer, Edgar Lawtell and the host.

A short business meeting was held after the dinner, and the evening was devoted to merry games. Edgar was remembered by his friends with a variety of presents.

ATTITUDE ON PUBLIC QUESTIONS IS REQUESTED BY LEAGUE

The following questionnaire is being sent out by the Good Government League to all of the candidates for office who have filed their petitions, the aim being to determine their qualifications for office:

To.....

Candidate for city trustee,
Glendale, Calif.

The Good Government League of Glendale, sincerely desirous that all municipal offices shall be occupied by persons who, in its estimation are the best fitted therefor, and who appear to come the nearest to complying with the requirements incorporated in its declaration of principles, a copy of which is attached, does hereby respectfully request you to fill out the enclosed questionnaire.

This organization believes that, in so far as possible, each candidate for office should be willing to make clear his personal views on subjects of vital interest and welfare to the community he seeks to serve, and in this spirit the following questions are propounded:

A. How long have you been a resident of the city of Glendale?.....years.

B. Have you ever held an elective office in any city government?.....

The constitution of the United States, in its first amendment, reads in part, "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof," and the underlying principle of the Good Government League is an invincible belief in the inalienable right of every citizen to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." It being apparent that there is a wave of effort sweeping over our country which threatens to abridge and curtail these privileges, thereby bringing a sense of injustice and oppression, and fearing that this wave may reach our fair and contented city, this league,

Want Wives for Cowboys

(By International News Service)

BOSTON, June 7—A letter has been received here by Superintendent of Police Michael Crowley from four cowboys who have absolutely no faith in Kipling's contention that "East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet." The missive follows:

"This letter will no doubt surprise you. We are four lonesome cowboys in search of girls for wives. We are on a lonesome ranch and heard that you could find us a wife. We are J. W. Smith, Leonard Jones, Dave Miller and J. Murphy. Hoping for a reply soon. The Lonesome Four, No. 401 West Broadway, Brownwood, Texas.

CELEBRATES EIGHTH BIRTHDAY WITH A PLEASANT PARTY

Russell Newton entertained eight of his little friends yesterday afternoon from 2 to 5, in celebration of the fact that it was his birthday and that he was eight years old.

Russell's mother had chosen a dainty pink and white color scheme for the celebration, and she had made a lovely pink and white birthday cake with which she served pink and white ice cream. Indoor and outdoor games were enjoyed by the merry party, which included Jean Lyons, Lottie Hudson, Helen McCormack, Mildred Fife, Merle Newton, Jack McCartney, Albert Newton and the host, Russell Newton.

Russell's grandmother, Mrs. Newton, and Mrs. Robert Lyons, were the only grownup guests.

GLENDALE MUSIC CLUB BANQUET GREAT SUCCESS

Guests Fill Banquet Hall at First Methodist Church and Enjoy Delicious Dinner, After-Dinner Speeches and Concert Program of High Order

The triumphant success of the banquet and concert given by the Glendale Music Club last evening at the First Methodist church proved several things, first the genius of Mrs. Mattison B. Jones as an organizer, second the loyal and efficient cooperation of her associates in office, and third the public support of the movement inaugurated by the Glendale Music club and its affiliated organizations, the Junior and Juvenile auxiliaries.

Very pretty were the flower-strewn tables that filled the banquet hall and at which practically all seats were taken, and delicious was the dinner prepared by the skilful hands of members of the Ladies Aid, served with military efficiency by other members of the society, garbed in white and wearing golden crowns of crepe paper. They carried no harps and guests looked in vain for their wings, but all agreed that though well disguised they were good angels nevertheless.

Speech by Dwight Stephenson

Of the after dinner speakers, President Stephenson of the board of city trustees was first called upon by Mrs. Jones, who acted as toastmistress. Said he:

"I bring you greetings from the entire city of Glendale. When we found the Glendale Music club was organizing a drive for membership, unanimously we went on record to indorse it. We are proud of it. We have splendid civic organizations, splendid women's clubs, splendid fraternal organizations and we are all glad to welcome this organizatioin. Glendale has needed it for a long time. You all know this is known as 'the jazz age.' Every community should have an organization of this kind that will give to its citizens the best in music. I know of no other medium that so influences our lives and characters. We wish you all the success possible." Great applause followed this cordial greeting.

C. C. Cooper, chairman of the chamber of commerce was then introduced and in a speech that was brief but to the point, presented the good wishes of the organization he represented and its desire to sustain the Music club in any way possible. In closing he presented to Mrs. Jones on behalf of the chamber of commerce a handsome gavel. The gift was a complete surprise to that lady, but none the less welcome and appreciated. In spite of its big membership, numbering 182, so new is the Glendale Music club that it has not had time to equip itself with the tools of office and she had been calling to order with the handle of her fork.

Greeting by Mrs. Hutchinson

Mrs. Charles Hutchinson, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club, expressed her pleasure in extending the greetings of her club. In closing she said, "May the soft pedal always be in

WAYNE FRANK TALKS ON FLOOD

Describes at Elks' Lodge the Manner in Which Pueblo Is Trisected by River

At a meeting of the Elks' lodge last night, Wayne V. Frank, who came to Glendale from Pueblo, Colo., addressed the lodge on the calamity that has befallen his home city. He described in detail the city and its environs, especially the manner in which the river has divided it into three sections and how these sections are now isolated. He reviewed present conditions and the sufferings that necessarily accompany such a flood and impressed the audience anew with the awful character of the disaster. He was also able to assure the lodge that aid is coming to the stricken city from many sources.

FORTY-FOUR YEARS OF WEDDED LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. M. Morehouse Give Family Dinner to Celebrate Anniversary

A celebration of great significance to the participants but one which was strictly confined to the family circle, was the dinner given Monday, June 6, by Mr. and Mrs. M. Morehouse of 1000 East Lomita avenue, in observance of their 44th wedding anniversary. The ceremony which made them one occurred at a place far remote from Glendale, viz., Ontario, Canada, but 11 years residence in Southern California have almost made them forget that they ever knew any other home. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Morehouse, Miss Adele Morehouse, Glenn Morehouse, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn A. Widmart and little Glenn jr.

BARNES-SHUCK CO. SECURES AGENCY

Music lovers of Glendale will be particularly interested in the announcement appearing in this issue of The Press regarding the Barnes-Shuck Music company securing the Knabe Ampico agency for Glendale, together with the full line of Knabe uprights and grands, also the Artistic Mehlin, Haines Brothers' and Behr Brothers' grands and uprights.

This progressive firm is to be congratulated. Mr. Barnes told a representative of The Press that the present stock of high-grade reproducing pianos is as fine as can be seen in any city, and a stock of from $25,000 to $30,000 will be carried at all times. E. D. Hurd, better known in Glendale as "Doc," a retired colonel of the Canadian Expeditionary forces, is connected with the house as salesman and is greeting his many friends in his new capacity.

MUST SEE AND GO ONE BETTER

"What a beautiful ring!"

"Yes," said the girl. "It was an engagement ring, but the engagement is broken."

"Aren't you going to send it back?"

"Of course. But I want to keep it long enough to let the next gentleman see what he is expected to live up to."

COMMANDER GIVES OFFICIAL DINNER

Daniel Campbell Entertains Fellow Officers and Companions Last Evening

The complimentary dinner given by Daniel Campbell Monday evening was the occasion of a very pleasant meeting of Glendale Commandery, Knights Templar No. 53, at the Masonic Temple on Brand boulevard, commencing with a 6:30 dinner given in the banquet room by the newly elected eminent commander, Daniel Campbell, to his officers and fellow companions.

The tables were arranged in the form of a large triangle decorated with Shasta daisies and white lilies. As usual, there were plenty of good east. Several guests were present—Charles Day, past grand commander of Indiana; William Malcolm of Alhambra Commandery No. 48, and others.

After the dinner was concluded, attention was given to the usual business in the lodge room.

The longest battle of the Civil War was that of Spottsylvania, Va., from May 8 to 18, 1864.

SHAKESPEARE SECTION CLOSES YEAR'S WORK

This Important Branch of Club Holds Delightful Picnic at Eagle Rock Park—New Officers Chosen—Section Looks Forward to Greater Things

The Shakespeare section of the Tuesday Afternoon club closed its year with a delightful picnic at Eagle Rock park, yesterday, attended by 25 ladies.

The noon luncheon proved the members as conscientious devotees of the culinary art as their year's work has proved them ardent students of the dramatic art of the great bard of Avon.

By a happy coincidence, the day set for the picnic was the birthday of Mrs. May Howard Ralston, a much-loved member of the section, so the luncheon table was centered with a beautiful and toothsome birthday cake made for the "birthday child" by Mrs. Colin Cable.

Plans for the new club year were made; Mrs. A. H. Montgomery was elected curator, Mrs. J. E. Lyon, instructor, and Mrs. May Howard Ralston, dramatic interpreter.

Praise was given by members of the section to Mrs. O. E. Von Oven, whose faithfulness, amiability and tact have rendered the work of the section so effective during the year, and made working with her a pleasure.

Under the new curator, the excellent record of the section will no doubt continue, for Mrs. Montgomery comes into the office with splendid preparation for it. She was a pupil for three years of Laura Frankenfield, who was James O'Neill's leading lady, and she also studied with Blanche Booth, niece and leading lady of Edwin Booth and also leading lady for Jefferson.

Mrs. Montgomery was formerly dramatic instructor in the Flaaten Conservatory of Music in Duluth, Minn., where she has done much work in staging plays, and she has been on the road professionally for seven years.

Mrs. Lyon's work during the year has been most helpful to the study of the section, and with her work next year and Mrs. May Howard Ralston's valuable assistance as dramatic interpreter, the Shakespeare section may look forward to the accomplishment of even greater things than they have made this year.

It was announced that $57 was cleared at the recent Shakespeare festival, which has been turned over to the club's building fund.

Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, president of the club, was a guest of the section yesterday, and made a talk in which she complimented the work of the section.

Mrs. Montgomery invited the section to be her guests at luncheon at the opening meeting of the club year, on the first Monday in October.

"CHUM" OF MRS. HARDING HAS NO FEAR OF OCCULT TERRORS

Dazzling Gem Is Worn Fearlessly by Mrs. Edward B. McLean Despite Jinx

By MILDRED MORRIS
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The Hope diamond "jinx" has no terrors for Mrs. Edward B. McLean, Washington social leader and wife of the multi-millionaire publisher of the Washington Post and Cincinnati Enquirer.

When May Yohe, former music hall favorite, whose exploits filled newspaper columns, was hurt in a fall in New York the other day, she attributed the accident to the Hope diamond hoodoo. Through her marriage to Francis Hope, she was the former possessor of the most famous of diamonds.

Mrs. McLean, its present owner, continues to wear the gorgeous gem, apparently indifferent to the legends connecting the mishaps and tragedies which have befallen its possessors in the past with some evil occult power supposed to be embodied in this wondrous diamond whose rays are so dazzling they almost blind the eye.

The Hope diamond crowns a collection of jewels said to be one of the most wonderful in the world. When traveling, Mrs. McLean carries most of the collection with her. Her husband always employs a detective to accompany her and keep an eagle eye on her jewel treasures, for this young woman, who has priceless diamonds and rubies and pearls "to burn," as her friends express it, is said to be as careless with them as if they were mere baubles.

It is no longer a shock to Washington to see her on a shopping tour wearing the Hope diamond with a sport suit. She wears it almost constantly and with any sort of costume. Formerly she wore the famous stone at formal evening functions as the center of a jeweled diadem. She now wears it as a necklace pendant.

The natives of Point Isabel, the fishing village in Texas on the Mexican border where Mrs. McLean accompanied President and Mrs. Harding on the outing last November which "freshened" them for their entrance into the White House, still remember the "jewelled lady" who roughed it with a rope of costly pearls around her neck and wore gorgeous rubies to brighten her outing costume.

The present possessor of the Hope diamond and closest friend in Washington's social set of Mrs. Harding, the First Lady of the Land, is the daughter of a Colorado miner.

Oldtimers in Ouray, Colo., recall the time when Evelyn Walsh played round the picturesque mining camp in pinafores, and her father, "Tom" Walsh, went to work every morning in a red flannel shirt and carrying a pick.

"Tom" Walsh, whose story reads like a fairy tale, was a man of genuine culture. His hands were rough with toil, but he needed no college degree or blue-blooded ancestry to grace the position of companion of kings and statesmen. Social triumphs in New port and Europe marked his path after he "struck it rich."

He was an intimate of old King Leopold of Belgium.

The Colorado mining king dazzled

BONDING PROPOSITIONS ON MUNICIPAL BALLOT

City Manager Reports Order by Railroad Commission for Gates at Brand Boulevard Crossing Over Southern Pacific—Viola District Annexation Deferred

The first business at the special meeting of the city trustees last night was the passage of a resolution formally declaring lost the election to annex the Sycamore canyon district to Glendale.

The next was the passage of a resolution ordering the placing upon the ballot at the coming municipal election of a bond proposition of $22,000 to provide a swimming pool, acquire land for park purposes, etc.; also a bond proposition of $26,000 for a municipal building and land, to house city supplies.

Flagman at Brand Blvd. Crossing

The city manager reported that pursuant to instructions in regard to the stationing of a flagman at Brand boulevard crossing of the Southern Pacific right-of-way, he had taken the matter up with Supt. Whalen of the Southern Pacific company, Los Angeles; and that in the meantime he had seen Messrs. Ashworth and Ball, engineers for the railroad commission and as a result, a copy of a letter had been forwarded to him in which the railroad commission requests the Southern Pacific company to arrange for the installation of gates at the crossing referred to.

Resolution Rescinded

On motion of Trustee Bartlett, it was ordered that resolution No. 1198, adopted May 31, 1921, providing for annexation election in the Viola street district, be rescinded; this action being necessary by reason of an error on the part of the Los Angeles Journal in publishing said resolution.

Annexation Election

On motion of Trustee Bartlett, a resolution was adopted as No. 1205, giving notice of an annexation election to be held in the Viola street district on July 14, 1921.

Fire Truck and Engine No. 2

Trustee Robinson stated that it would be necessary to have a small additional appropriation to be used in putting fire truck No. 2 in working condition, and on motion of Trustee Bartlett, the city manager was instructed to investigate and report.

VICTIMS MAROONED IN TREES CRY FOR HELP

(By International News Service)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 7.—The property destruction along the 100-mile stretch of the Arkansas valley from Pueblo east to nearly the Kansas state line, will be enormous, according to the meager reports trickling into the city.

Because the people had ample warning to escape to the hills, it is believed the loss of life will not total over 50.

Rocky Ford, Manzalona, Fowler and other prosperous farming towns are intact, reliable reports said, though they were badly washed by the floods and all the surrounding ranches are inundated. Reports here said that women and children have been seen clinging to branches in trees crying for help. They had been washed there by the floods and are nearly exhausted from cold, hunger and exposure.

The first reports in nearly 48 hours from many districts east and south of Pueblo were brought in here today by men who fought their way out of the stricken Arkansas valley to get succor to the stricken ranchers. They declare that there is no way of estimating the dead and report that property damage may go as high as $50,000,000.

CHILD IS PAWN ON CHESSBOARD

CINCINNATI, June 7—"In the past twenty years one-twentieth of the population of the United States has been involved in divorces," declares C. C. Carstens, of New York City, national director of the Child Welfare League of America, who conferred here with the thirty executives of local child welfare institutions.

"The child is generally merely a pawn on the chessboard and is given but little consideration in most divorce cases," he said. "The total number concerned in divorce cases has been 5,335,000 men, women and children. These figures are based on census returns and other data. They give an idea of the vast extent of the problem of the child's welfare in divorce cases.

"The child welfare league is striving to see that the child gets a square deal. We are also actively interested in protecting the minds of girls and youths under eighteen years of age from the baneful influence of 'movie' pictures of the 'eternal triangle' type. We believe that rigid censorship of the movies is the proper remedy."

PUEBLO BUSINESS MAN MURDERED

(By International News Service)

PUEBLO, Colo., June 7.—Ernest E. Withers, president of the Iron City Foundry Company, and one of the most widely known business men in Pueblo and the Arkansas valley, was shot and instantly killed just before midnight last night, as he was driving with his son in an automobile near Eighth and Grand streets.

Mystery surrounds the shooting, but it was declared by Deputy Coroner Ray McCarthy that Withers was probably shot by a guardsman, as yet unidentified.

Captain Dennis of the Colorado Rangers, declared that his investigation of the shooting indicated that the shot was fired from inside the car. There was no weapon found in the car. The top of his head was blown completely off.

A coroner's inquest will be held this morning.

Powerful Transformers

(By International News Service)

PITTSFIELD, Mass., June 7—The two highest voltage transformers in the world were shipped by the local branch of a well-known electric manufacturing company a few days ago. One is to be used at Cascada, Calif., and the other in the Sierra Nevada mountains. Each is 220,000 volts and will convey an electrical current 200 miles.

The third Sunday in June has been set aside as Father's Day. A colored rose is worn for a living father and a white one for one who is dead.

GLENDALE COMPANY HAS FAST GROWTH

Only Few More Openings In New Headquarters Company

The Glendale company of the Los Angeles regiment of the National Guard of California, which was organized last February under Capt. T. D. Watson, has shown such rapid growth since that time that it has been necessary to organize a new company. The present company has shown such rapid progress and efficiency along with its growth that it has been decided that the new company shall be the headquarters company for the Los Angeles regiment. This company shall be composed of 41 enlisted men and one first lieutenant. Enlisted men are given one-third of the pay of men of the same grade in the regular army for each drill. The Glendale company drills from 7:30 to 9:00 o'clock Thursday evenings, on the high school campus.

There is only room for eleven more men, so all hoping to get in would better do so within the next few days. There is now an enlisting station next to the Glendale Pacific Electric depot where enlistments will be taken any time.

The national guardsmen are to have their annual two weeks' camp from July 10 to 25 at Yosemite valley, for all members desiring to go. Transportation will be furnished to and from the camp and the enlisted men will receive the same pay, while at camp, as men of the corresponding grade in the regular army. There will only be four hours' drill a day. Entertainments, athletics, and a swimming place will be provided. Those enlisting now will be eligible for this camp.

SENIOR WEEK AT OCCIDENTAL

This is "Senior Week" at Occidental college, a busy, memorable seven days for the class of 70 that will receive diplomas from this institution at the end of the week.

The baccalaureate sermon was delivered at the grand stand in the athletic field on last Sunday afternoon, by Rev. Dr. Gustav A. Brieglieb. This was followed by a vesper service in charge of Dr. A. A. Fulton, the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A.

Rehearsals for the senior play, "The Lion and the Mouse," are engaging the time and energy of one group; among them is Willard F Learned of Glendale, who takes the part of "Jefferson Ryder" in the cast.

Friday evening is the date of the president's reception, and Saturday is the busiest day of all.

The morning session is devoted to the class day exercises, which include the "Ivy Procession," with its tree planting and ivy planting ceremonies.

The college luncheon follows at 12:30, and this is succeeded by the meeting of the Occidental Woman's Club, at 2:30, and the academic procession at 4 o'clock.

Commencement exercises will take place at 4:30 at the grand stand in Patterson stadium, and the activities of "Senior Week" at Occidental will pass into history with the alumni banquet which takes place at 6:30 that evening.

Forums Favored

Edwin F. Kulp, the realty operator of North Brand boulevard, is very much in favor of the forums conducted by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce though he realizes it is hard for many business men to get away in the middle of the day to take advantage of them. They are of such value, however, that any member of the chamber who is really interested in his home town owes it to his city as well as to the chamber and himself, to attend, Mr. Kulp thinks. It must, however, he says, be kept free from religious or political partisanship. It should also be a working organization with occasional programs of five-minute addresses on local issues by members of the chamber acquainted with Glendale conditions.

"Now, before I support your candidate," said the conscientious citizen, "I want to know if there is anything in his past that he might be ashamed of?"

"Well," replied the campaign manager. "His picture and testimonial were once published in a patent medicine advertisement."

"How long ago?"

"About ten years."

"I don't hold that against him. Ten years ago patent medicines were not considered beverages."

TO CELEBRATE BUNKER HILL DAY

Saturday, June 18, 1921, with a picnic reunion in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles.

An appropriate and interesting program will open about 3 o'clock. The well-known picture "The Spirit of '76," will be featured.

Charles S. Lamb will sing "The Sword of Bunker Hill" and will lead in the patriotic songs.

The speakers will be General Frank C. Prescott, representing the "Sons of the American Revolution," Miss Harriet Spalding representing the "Daughters of the American Revolution."

President Paul W. Zimmerman will preside in charge of the exercises. All members of these two organizations as well as the Massachusetts people and their friends will be most heartily welcomed.

It is up to the Bay State people themselves to make this a success.

PILGRIM PLAY AT HOLLYWOOD

June 17, rehearsals will begin on the Pilgrim Play which had its highly successful experimental tryout last year in the canyon theatorium at Hollywood. Of such beauty and charm was its outdoor setting, so realistic and appealing were the scenes in the life of the Saviour, that anyone who saw it last year will wish to see it again.

As last year, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ralston and their son, Clarence, former residents of Glendale, will have parts assigned to them, just what they do not know. Mr. Herbert, who filled the role of Christ, has been reengaged and will soon come on from New York.

There are a little over 13,000,000 alien-born residents in America, and they use 76 languages and dialects to cuss American institutions.

After the war was started the nations issued various colored books. But after it was finished, their only need was check books.

A TRUE STORY BY YOUNG GIRL

One day mother was entertaining some people from Philadelphia. My two brothers climbed up on the roof with a pail full of water and threw it down the chimney. You ought to have seen the floor full of water; the people ran out of the house and screamed and jumped around as if it was awful, but it wasn't so bad anyway. The next day my brother put a pail of water in front of the back door, and when I came home from school I went in the back door and fell in the water and my brother laughed. That night my two brothers took a carnation and put red pepper on it, and gave it to my sister to let daddy smell, and when my sister was walking in the hall she smelt it herself and sneezed and sneezed. Daddy was very cross and whipped each of them. So that day we all had fun laughing at each other.—Mildred H. Thompson (9-years old).

MR. RHOADES ON TRIP TO MT. LOWE

Secretary Rhoades was one of the guests at the meeting of secretaries of chambers of commerce which was held Saturday morning at Mount Lowe. He and the other members of the organization made the ascent Friday night, leaving Los Angeles about 5 o'clock. Morning on the mountain top dawned clear and beautiful and the secretaries were able to look down upon the blanket of fog that enveloped the valley below.

Many topics were discussed. A secretary might have a local condition which puzzled him and on bringing it to the attention of other secretaries would be able to learn just how they had handled a similar situation. Advertising was a fruitful topic and brought forth many suggestions as to how to best reach the people of the north and east likely to be interested in coming to California. The best methods of transportation were debated. The holding up of farmers by commission houses was one of the evils mentioned and it was shown that a good many important products such as rice and cotton are absolutely controlled by the commission men.

The secretaries learned that Los Angeles has started a campaign to raise a million dollars to be used for advertising purposes and it is likely she will call upon the suburban chambers to help. A committee was appointed to investigate the proposition of which Mr. Rhoades was made a member. Sewage disposal was brought up by Mr. Rhoades but it is a question so complicated by local conditions that not much headway was made.

Very nicely treated were the secretries during their stay, so Mr. Rhoades reported. He thought Mount Lowe one of the most beautiful spots he ever visited and enjoyed the trip thoroughly. He returned to Glendale Saturday night.

WILLARD LEARNED ENTERTAINS CHUMS

Willard F. Learned, 1543 Sixth street, was host on Saturday evening to 35 members of the O. M. A. Fraternity, whom he entertained at a sumptuous chicken dinner served in the bungalow of the Central Christian church.

A dainty color scheme of green and white was carried out in all the appointments of the table, and college songs, toasts and speeches made the event a memorable one.

Dan Hammack, Clarence Taube, Howard Seidel and the host were among those who made impromptu after-dinner speeches.

KEYSTONE STATE TO HOLD PICNIC JUNE 18

All who ever lived in the Keystone State are invited to a great picnic reunion, all day, Saturday, June 18, in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles. Come as early as you can and spend the day with friends. We will have county registers and headquarters so you can find the old neighbors even with thousands present. There will be a brief program but the main purpose will be to have a good time and to meet your friends from all over Southern California. We want to see all the visitors from the old home state as well as our residents so as to make this the greatest picnic in our history. Bring your baskets well filled. —Secretary.

A BLOT IN CONGRESS

Congressman Connally is to be commended for seeking to have excluded from the Congressional Record the speech made Friday by Congressman Michaelson, in which the latter urged his resolution for an investigation of charges that the United States had been led into war by British propaganda and financial interests.

The tenor of Mr. Michaelson's speech was that through the American newspapers Great Britain had disseminated propaganda which embroiled the United States into the war on the Allied side and that the American people were duped by an unscrupulous combination of wealth.

The speech was, to use Congressman Connally's words, a "slimy utterance of one who is not worthy to sit in this chamber." To carry the propaganda of hatred against England into the halls of Congress is indeed a treacherous thing to do, but to insinuate that the American people were duped into the war and that we should not have aligned ourselves against Prussian autocracy and militarism is an act which surely is not far removed from what is commonly accepted as un-Americanism.

But the question must come to the thoughtful citizen, Why is Congress? Is it nothing more than an expensive body of men hired by the people to carry on investigation after investigation? In the name of sound reason, what would it avail if an investigating committee were to spend time and money investigating the alleged propaganda of Great Britain in this country immediately prior to the war? Would we apologize to Germany, would we say we were sorry she lost the war, would we sanction Prussianism?

It is sincerely hoped that Congressman Michaelson's resolution will be summarily killed and with such determination that other congressmen will not venture to detract the business of that body from the imperative and vitally constructive tasks now before it.

CARRYING ON

Small items of world-wide importance frequently become half lost amid the sensational happenings of the globe. We are prone to reflect upon the disorders in Upper Silesia, the British coal strikes, the ruthless bloodshed in Ireland, the murder trials of the Clara Smith Hamons and the divorce hearings of the Stillmans. Not long ago the cables from Europe carried the brief announcement that France's exports now exceeded her imports by 345,000,000 francs.

That piece of news is the streak of dawn following the black night. Behold a republic, nearly half of which was razed to the earth by warfare, bled white of human resources and treasure. Save that of Belgium no country immediately following the war was deserving of more pity. And now, less than three years after the fighting ceased, France has built an economic structure which today is a going concern. She has established a favorable balance of trade, which means that prosperity lies ahead. Furthermore, of her imports, more than 50 per cent were raw materials, ready to be turned by French workmen into finished products.

Of course, France has not thrown aside the burdens of the war; she has not relieved herself of the great debts contracted through the long years of fighting; she has not completely effaced the marks of blood. But she has made progress in the face of odds and has proved to the world that bankruptcy cannot be found in her national lexicon. Other powers will place confidence in her, now that she has shown her ability to overcome the obstacles of the war and the road to prosperity will be made the smoother.

There is a lesson for all nations in the extraordinary economic recovery made by France. There is inspiration in the sturdy manner in which the French workman and peasant have taken up the task. The great spirit which smashed the enemy at the Marne is reflected in these cold facts told by the export and import figures relating to the French foreign trade.

GRAVE AND GAY

The opposing pitcher stalls along and kills time that way in the hope that Babe may be afraid to go home in the dark.

"The seat of his pants, I suppose."
"You're kinder to dumb animals,"
His wife said, "than to me."
"Well, you try being dumb," he growled,
"And see how kind I'll be."

"Caller.—'Is Miss Jones in?'
"Servant.—'No, madam.'
"Caller (surprised).—'Where is she?'
"Servant.—'Don't you know, mum? Miss Jones is going to be married, and she goes to the college every afternoon to take lessons in domestic silence.'"

"First Motorist.—'I thought you said if I were sociable with the judge I should get off?'
"Second Motorist.—'Were you?'
"First Motorist.—'Yes, I said, "Good morning, Judge, how are you today?" and he replied, "Fine—£5."'"

"Sedentary work," said the college lecturer, "tends to lessen the endurance."
"In other words," butted in the smart student, "the more one sits the less one can stand."
"Exactly," retorted the lecturer; "and if one lies a great deal one's standing is lost completely."

As a rule the meek bear the cross patiently until somebody tries to put over a double cross.

The reason it doesn't read "Husbands Obey Your Wives," is because Paul wasn't a woman.

We trust that the proverbial French courtesy will not persuade M. Carpentier to let Dempsey have the first lick.

"So Maud broke her engagement with Jack because the doctor said he had a tobacco heart."
"Yes, and I don't blame her. Who wants a husband that's damaged by smoke?"

"Grandma, can you help me with this problem?"
"I could dear, but I don't think it would be right."
"No, I don't suppose it would, but have a shot at it and see!"

He stuck a few rose bushes into the ground in his back yard one day.
He did not prune them and he permitted wild shoots to grow.
He never cultivated the soil. He never sprayed the bushes after the warm days set in.
He did nothing to help them or encourage them, but later whenever gardening was the topic of conversation he always said:
"I never had any luck raising roses."

WOMAN'S COZY CORNER

By JOSEPHINE FRANCE

The Bridesmaid's Gown

Let us forget—for a short while, of course—the prospective June bride and turn our attention to the sweet girl who is to play the second role in this wonderful wedding ceremony—the bridesmaid. How happy she is! Yet her task is a pretty hard one. She must, of course, look charming, attractive, but, mind you, not too attractive.

Her toilet must be lovely, so as to be part of the picture, but as inconspicuous as possible under the circumstances. She must be tactful and remember that the bride is—and must be—the star of the romantic performance.

Taffeta comes to the help of the puzzled bridesmaid. Taffeta dresses are this year just as popular as they were last seaon—and the season before—in fact, as far back as I can remember. This crisp material has been chosen in preference to any other by many charming bridesmaids.

An attractive frock may be made of peach-color taffeta, the bodice exceedingly snug, with an 1830 neck line, tiny puff sleeves, while the skirt has long panels that turn back on themselves, ending in bunches of gathers above the silver girdle. Large rosettes of silver ribbon form the only trimming.

The hat to go with this gown must, of course, be of the same taffeta. A garland of small roses encircles the low crown and in the back there is a rather wide bow of silver ribbon with long streamers.

What could be prettier than this other model boasting a pale blue satin foundation and an overdress of pale lavendar chiffon? The underskirt is quite plain, straight, although not tight; the overskirt made of tier upon tier of ruffles, each curving upward on the sides and ending in a quaint little bouquet. A tiny garland of these same miniature flowers encircles the waist and trims all the edges.

Of Pale Green

Another charming model is fashioned of pale green taffeta and white net. It is exceedingly simple in line, the taffeta foundation being cut chemise style, while the net overdress reminds one of the models worn by the Victorian belles.

The taffeta bodice is snug, with quaint little tucked and puffed sleeves of net. The overskirt is very wide, shirred around the waist and edged with a narrow silver fringe.

The hat to match is very large and should be qualified as "picturesque in the extreme." It is made of shirred white net over pale green taffeta and trimmed with a crown of pale yellow "rose pompons." You know those tiny rosebuds?

Series of Articles on Patents, Inventions, Etc.

By WILLIAM C. CUTLER of Glendale, California

Q.—Benefits of commercial search. What are they?

A.—1. It may furnish proof that the invention does not come within the requirements of the patent statutes, that is, that it has been in public use over two years before application. If a similar device, so close in construction that it would be deemed the same as the inventor's, had been used for a longer period than two years, it would invalidate any patent that might be secured. It is wise, therefore, to forestall this possibility. The range of personal knowledge of the average inventor and manufacturer as to a prior construction which may have been abandoned, for one reason or another, is in a sense restricted and such persons have not the means at hand to make a consistent and thorough search.

In fact it can only be satisfactorily done in conjunction with the preliminary search of the patent office records.

2. It generally assists, not only in improving the operative part of the inventor's construction, but in addition, helps in giving it that final touch which improves its marketability. Every product which has been made and sold, for any length of time, reflects the desires of the purchasing public, as is evidenced by the succession of new models in many arts. The day has passed when things will sell because they are merely operative, they must now meet the wishes of the consumer as regards size, finish and adaptability, etc.

3. It saves expense both directly and indirectly. If the commercial search develops information in relation to a prior similar construction, which is not found in the preliminary patent office search, it may cause the inventor to abandon the application. This will save him the cost between that of the commercial search and the cost of a patent. Indirectly it may enable changes to be made before manufacture, which, without the information secured, would have to be made afterwards, or it may suggest a means of reducing cost or possibly result in a higher price being secured.

4. Abandoned products can at times be utilized by the later inventor, and can usually be purchased "for a song." Patterns and special tools are sometimes very valuable.

Q.—Validity search. Of what does it consist?

A.—A search of all patents which come within the scope of the invention to determine positively whether or not the patent is valid. It is just as important as a search of a title on real estate.

Q.—Infringement search. What is it?

A.—A search to determine whether any prior patents exist, that may contain claims sufficiently broad to cover the invention under investigation. For if such should be found, the invention would infringe the prior patent. It must be remembered that patents are granted without reference to their possible infringement of other patents. The patent examiner merely determines the question of the individual novelty of the particular construction submitted. Possible infringement does not enter into his search; in other words, the government gives the inventor no guarantee, expressed or implied, that the invention is free from the dominating influence of prior patents. Impressions to the contrary, as regards the last sentence, are almost, it might be said, universal, but they are wrong. "This causes the author to advise, without fear of contradiction, that before starting the manufacture of any product, the patent under which it is to be constructed, should be first subjected to an infringement search. No man would be so foolish as to build on a piece of land until the title had been searched or guaranteed.

Q.—Cost of validity and infringement searches. What are they?

A.—It depends upon the character of the invention.

Q.—Does the patent office undertake searches?

A.—They make no searches upon which they will publish reports. Their searches are made for their own use in passing upon applications.

Q.—Does the patent office make any effort to determine whether an invention possesses actual novelty or utility?

A.—No, except so far as its novelty is indicated by the drawings and description, and is examined and compared with that shown in prior patents. The patent office makes no search or investigation to determine the actual practicability of an invention.

DON'T BE CONTENTED

"Leave well enough alone" is all right if not carried to excess.

May men have remained stationary through life, if such were possible, just because they are satisfied to be doing pretty well or better than most men of their knowledge and acquaintance.

Contentment of a certain kind is an enemy to progress.

The contentetd man is not an energetic, progressive man.

But the man who is looking constantly ahead, forward to the next place which he is to occupy, is not contented to stay, but forges ahead to the place beyond—a better place.

Ambition makes men advance.

But the contented man ceases to study and work for the better things and in his contentment goes to sleep.

The contented man is so benumbed by self-satisfaction that he fails to keep abreast of progress and others begin to pass him who started far below in life's journey.

Don't be contented with what you have done, but strive to do more; shove yourself ahead, old man.

MR. YARICK ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY FOR TRUSTEE

I desire to announce through your columns that I am a candidate for the office of City Trustee. I have been a resident of Glendale for the past 14 years and know something of its past and future problems. While I realize the great responsibility attached to the office, I feel confident that many years of business training and experience fully qualify me for the place.

I have made no pledges nor promises to any person or organization. If elected, it is my intention to use the very best judgment of which I am capable, in acting upon the various matters that come before the Council, and will do all in my power to have the affairs of the city conducted on an economical business basis.

Yours very truly,
H. W. YARICK.

NOTICE

I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of councilman of the City of Glendale to be chosen at the election to be held on June 28, 1921, under the provisions of the new charter.

Circulation Affidavit---3000 Copies

The Glendale Daily Press, less than three months old, has a paid circulation in excess of 1800 copies, and this is steadily increasing. There is also a sample copy distribution of 1200 daily. Advertisers never before have had so great an opportunity of reaching the reading and buying public as is afforded by The Glendale Daily Press.

Appeared before me this 17th day of May, 1921, J. W. Usilton, general manager of the Glendale Publishing and Printing Company, who deposes and says that the above is a true statement of the circulation of The Glendale Daily Press on the date above named.

Women Harvesters' Aplenty

(By International News Service)

WICHITA, Kan., June 7—Men, watch out that the women don't show you up in the harvest fields this year. The local employment offices report that they have received numerous inquiries from women who wish harvest work. Most of the women prefer employment as cooks, although several have announced they have no objection to doing manual work, if desired.

It is virtually a certainty that the state of Kansas will have a surplus of harvest hands for the crop this year.

The United States has been engaged in 20 general wars, from the Revolution, commencing with the Battle of Lexington, Mass., in April, 1775, to the World War.

SAYS STIFF WOMEN HAVE STIFF BONES

(By International News Service)

LONDON, June 7—The hockey-playing girl was unanimously described as a potentially bad mother at a conference held on the "Present Physical Education of Girls."

"Eighty per cent of women gymnastic instructors have been more or less incapacitated for bearing children," said one of the speakers, "while the little feminine woman of the Victorian era had usually three or four strapping sons."

Miss Redman, of the School of Physical Development, said she had invariably found that the stiff muscular woman had a stiff slow-working brain. Physical training colleges were preparatory schools for nursing homes for nervous cases. Swedish drill was

Laundry Mailed Home

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 7—Hundreds of students at Ohio State University here send their washings home.

These students include a number who reside in distant parts of Ohio.

A canvas covered box is used in sending the soiled linen home and back. Laundry bills are cut considerably through this practice of letting mothers do the work, these students say.

Soon learning the necessary amount of postage, the boys stamp the boxes and pile them about mail boxes in the university district.

However, on rainy days when rain soaks the boxes the weight as registered at home post office means 'postage due' for dad.

The largest consignments are mailed on Sundays. At one mail box, near High street and 11th avenue, the southeast corner of the university campus, it is necessary to use a wagon in removing the large number of laundry boxes which sometimes are piled higher than the mail box.

Glendale Music Club Banquet Great Success

order. So far you have used crescendo, but may the whole be harmony."

In introducing Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer and special guest of the evening, Mrs. Jones paid a glowing tribute to his fine qualities not only as an artist but as a man, and dwelt on his effective work for the stimulation of an intelligent love of music in this country. When he arose to speak Mr. Cadman announced that he would be "some punkins" if he could live up to half the good things with which Mrs. Jones had credited him.

He complimented the club on its accomplishments and said: "One of the things that has impressed me tonight is the wonderful enthusiasm and sincerity that characterizes your organization and the cooperation, kindness and interest manifested by your civic organizations. If in every town in the country we could find such coalesence we would soon become a musical nation."

At the conclusion of Mr. Cadman's talk, which cannot here be given in full, little Helen Sternberg, president of the Juvenile auxiliary of the club, who was seated at the table reserved for the speakers, was introduced to the company and greeted with applause. Little Bettie Hagood, who is but six years old, was then introduced as a member of the Juvenile auxiliary and delighted the big company by playing in a fine, interpretative way, Mr. Cadman's composition, "The Indian Camp," no one being more pleased than Mr. Cadman himself. A storm of applause followed the number, but Mrs. Jones announced that no encores could be allowed because time pressed. Little Rebecca Brant, another auxiliary member then played "To a Weeping Willow," by Vernon Spencer, who was to have been a guest of honor, but failed to appear. The little girl played with credit to herself and her instructor and was likewise applauded.

Charles Munro

Charles Munro, director of the Burbank Choral club, which had come to Glendale 50 strong, and which later put on quite a splendid concert in the auditorium of the church, was next called upon. He too complimented the club on its swift and wonderful organization and reviewed the history of the Choral club of which he is the head, its present prosperity, and the pleasant fact that an organization is building of which Burbank has reason to feel proud and one that will in time be an advertising asset of the city.

Miss Veda Knapp

One of the best speeches of the evening was made by Miss Veda Knapp, president of the Junior auxiliary, which now has 70 members, who was next introduced. With charming absence of embarrassment or formality she told of the accomplishments and aims of her organization and its working plans.

Officers Introduced

Before adjourning for the concert up stairs, Mrs. Jones introduced to the company the officers and directors of her organization as follows: Treasurer, Mrs. Warren Roberts; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. L. Marlenee; recording secretary, Mrs. L. N. Hagood; second vice president, Mrs. Spencer Robinson; first vice president, Mrs. Edmond Shank; directors, Mmes. Frank Arnold, Calvin Whiting and Dora Gibson.

When dinner guests ascended the stairs to the auditorium they found a fine audience assembled for the concert which opened shortly after 8 o'clock.

Wesley Kuhnle

Because of another engagement Wesley Kuhnle was invited to open the program, his organ solos including "Variations de Concert" (Bonnet), Concerto No. 5 (Handel) and "Tocata" (Dubois). The fine qualities of the organ were revealed to the delight of his audience, his interpretation of the second movement of the cencerto being especially beautiful.

Burbank Choral Club

The Burbank Choral club then sang "Song of Liberty" (Beach), in a truly splendid manner, afterwards singing most acceptably Lohr's "Slumber Song." Contrasting numbers sung by the club in the second part of the program were the "Soldiers' Chorus," "The Little Pink Rose," by Carrie Jacobs Bond, which was repeated in response to applause, and "By Babylon's Wave," Gounod's splendid composition not often heard. This was also repeated as an encore.

Mrs. Sparrow

An outstanding number was the piano solo "St. Francis Walking Upon the Waves" (Liszt), by Mrs. Zefer Algots Sparrow. As a piece of descriptive work it was beyond praise. The continuous roll of the surf as an accompaniment to the melody of the theme, was wonderfully brought out. One could almost see as well as hear the dash of the water over the rocks as well as the softer shore murmurs. In response to the appreciative applause, Mrs. Sparrow repeated part of the number.

Mrs. McKellar

The Scotch solos by Mrs. Philip McKellar were a delight which climaxed in the dramatic tenderness of her rendition of "Robin Adair," other selections being "Comin' Thru' the Rye" and "Annie Laurie."

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips

J. H. Phillips also pleased the audience greatly with his solo "If" (Denza). Mrs. Phillips served as the fine accompanist of the Choral club and revealed herself as an artist, particularly in accompanying her husband and in the prelude to "By Babylon's Wave." The announcement by Mrs. Jones that Mr. and Mrs. Phillips have moved to Glendale and will join the Music club brought a burst of applause.

Appreciation

In the intermission between the two sections of the program, Mrs. Jones explained the purpose of the drive to build up a strong organization with funds at its command sufficient to bring artists to this city for the education and enjoyment of the music lovers of our city. She also thanked all who cooperated in making the evening such a success, the officers of the club, the Ladies Aid of the First Methodist church, and especially Mrs. Colin Cable, who had charge of the ticket selling and by phone and other methods of reaching people was largely responsible for the fine attendance on the banquet.

"Chum" of Mrs. Harding Has No Fear of Occult

Paris with the magnificence of his entertainments, the most notable of which was the dinner he gave in honor of Belgium's king. Food truly fit for a king was served on gold plate.

Mrs. McLean's intimacy with Mrs. Harding is of long standing. When the Hardings returned to Washington to prepare for the inauguration, they were guests at the McLean home and remained there until they moved into the White House.

Recently the chief executive and the first lady of the land "dropped in" on a dance the McLeans were giving, and their first Sunday outing after they entered the White House was spent at Friendship, the McLean country estate at Leesburg, Va. It is rumored that the McLeans have offered this country place to the president for a summer home.

Mrs. Thomas Walsh, Mrs. McLean's mother and widow of the Colorado miner, is known as the friend of vice-presidents. She was the most intimate Washington friend of former Vice-President and Mrs. Marshall. Most of the burden of official entertaining fell on Vice-President Marshall during President Wilson's illness. Possessing only a modest income and living at a hotel, the Marshalls would have been hard put if Mrs. Walsh had not thrown open her palatial home for their entertainments. It was there the state dinner to King Albert of Belgium was held. It was Mrs. Walsh's "treat.' As at "Tom" Walsh's dinner to King Leopold, King Albert's uncle, the food was served on gold plate.

Mrs. Walsh, who is now in Europe, is expecting on her return to play "Lady Bountiful" to Vice-President and Mrs. Coolidge, who also live in a hotel, and, like the Marshalls, find living on an income no larger than a vice-president's salary a difficult job.

OROVILLE, June 7. — Believing that many hidden river bed channels escaped the notice of the early gold prospectors, Bert Knapp has secured a diving suit and will explore the bottom of the swift-flowing Feather river.

Wooden Leg Was Holster

(By International News Service)

TOGUS, Maine, June 7—A hollow in his wooden leg was used by Ernest B. Williams, a Spanish War veteran confined at the National Soldier's Home here, as the hiding place from which he whipped out a revolver and shot dead Lieutenant Melamid Oridiv, first assistant surgeon.

"Venison Person"

(By International News Service)

CARMEL, June 7.—Harry Leon Wilson, creator of "Ruggles of Red Gap," and scores of quaint western characters has evolved a new one. He is the "venison person." The author faced Justice Wallace of Monterey county charged with having had fresh venison in his possession. Imposing a fine of $75, the judge demanded the source of the deer meat. "The venison person," promptly returned Wilson, and that was as close as the judge got to the name of the deer hunter. However, game wardens say Charles Vink, now serving 90 days in jail for hunting out of season is the "venison person." The game wardens are said to be watching the fashionable artists and authors' colony here closely because of their love for venison roasts.

County's Credit No Good

(By International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 7—Jackson County's credit is poor, according to statistics furnished by several of this city's leading furniture stores.

Judge George E. Kimball of the County Court ordered the purchase of a stove for a road gang. Two county agents sauntered forth to buy one.

"We found one stove that suited us at an auction company and another at a furniture store," the two agents told Judge Kimball. "The purchases were arranged and then when the deal was about to be closed we were informed the county's credit was no good—that we must pay cash."

The county purchasing agents are presumably still looking for a citizen who will give them a $25 stove on credit.

MONUMENT TO FIRST WIFE; BEATS SECOND

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 7—Second wives have certain rights, according to Judge George F. Rush in Circuit Court.

These rights include the liberty to spend their dowries as they please. The judge indicated that he would grant Mrs. Eva Pollack, a second wife, a divorce because her husband took her dowry away.

Mrs. Pollack testified Michael Pollack, the husband, had spent her $1000 dowry to erect a monument over the grave of his first wife. The fact that he wanted to be buried under the same monument with no space reserved for No. 2 only added to the latter's case, according to the court.

Pollack incidentally knocked out Mrs. Eva's front teeth when she objected to the monument.

Find Lost River Bed

CARIBOU, Cal., June 7—A lost river bed was encountered in drilling a power tunnel here recently. It was at a depth of 400 feet and the log of a tree was found in a perfect state of preservation, the wood pruning freely.

Something Useful in Mexico

(By International News Service)

LONDON, June 7—A forty-two gallon barrel of oil, equivalent to a ton of coal, for $1.96 is an easy proposition, says Mr. Maxim Ford, of the Geological Society of Mexico, now in London on business. Mexico, he declares could supply the whole world with oil for fifty years and banish coal worries from the face of the earth. The trouble is not to get the oil, but to get rid of it.

Another difference between death and taxes is that taxes leave nothing for your relatives to fight over.

Three Laws

By REV. A B. SMART

All created spirits are ever under three great universal laws. They are: First, the law of will, choice and purpose. All things have a purpose.

Nothing occurs, or exists, in nature, the works of God, in the heavens above, the earth beneath, or in the waters around them, without some purpose, of some spirit, human, devilish or Divine.

Purpose is always the central, all pervasive law, in the action and conduct of all spirit.

Purpose is the ultimate universal fact in all they do or try. In whatever they differ, as they do in many things rightly, they all and always agree in this. They ever have a purpose. Invariably this is the first of all facts and all laws, in spiritual activities. So God pre-purposed before and in the formation of the Cosmos; that all spirits should be holy and without blame, in love before Him, through Christ, to the praise of the glory of His grace." Eph. 1:4, Rom. 8:28-30, I. Tim. 1:5-11, II. Tim. 3:16-17, Titus 2:11-14.

This is the first law in creation, nature, history, providence, redemption. His word and the work of the Holy Spirit, in experience and science. Sin is the avoiding, rejecting, neglecting and despising this universal law. This is death, spiritual death. From this and out of it comes all transgression.

The second law we are under, is that of sin. "The minding of the flesh." The carnal spirit, the love of evil. The disposition to do wrong and not right.

Men are born like a wild ass' colt. They go astray as soon as they are born, thinking, speaking and doing lies.

They naturally neglect and break the laws of nature, and of God and men.

Wrong thinking and wrong acting produce evil habits and bad character, without exception. That is the fountain of evil life and results that what a man, a woman, a community or nation sows they reap, without exception, "but if to the spirit they reap life everlasting."

The third law is the law of grace. "The law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus."

The irrepressible conflicts of life occur under these last two laws. We ourselves, and each of us build our character according to the choice we make, whether of sin or grace. Our experience proves it.

Stop sinning or it will stop you. Repent or perish. Turn to God and He will help you.

Thanks the Children

Editor Glendale Press: The Children's Home Society of California, through the Glendale Press, wishes to thank the 61 children of Glendale who, on Saturday, June 4, collected funds for the homeless and neglected children in our state of California. The sum total is $299.07. The first prize was won by Edna Muller of 231 North Orange street, who collected $34.79; the second prize by Rebecca Kline of 123 North Kenwood street, who closely followed, collected $31.22. We feel that each of these girls should have honorable mention. The boys also did well; but the girls far surpassed them. We do not wish to overlook the enthusiastic spirit of the children, most of whom worked with the thought of a child's helpfulness for another child not as well provided for as himself; a spirit, to our minds, to be fostered in our youth of today rather than the working for prizes for himself. The society also thanks the executive committee and the citizens of Glendale for their cordial cooperation in our work. Any child who failed to return hearts on Saturday may send same to Mrs. E. D. Yard of 646 North Jackson street.

Mrs. T. BOYD,
Finance Worker.

Splendid Spirit in Glendale

Editor Glendale Press: The children of the Orthopaedic Hospital-School, at 2422 Palm drive, Los Angeles, wish to express their sincere gratitude to Mr. Jensen and staff of the Palace Grand theater, and Mr. Howe and staff of the Glendale theater, for their kindness in showing the film depicting the work of the Orthopaedic Hospital-School, and for their cooperation with the workers who received the donations in the lobbies of the theaters. The children also wish to thank the big-hearted citizens of Glendale for their generous and ready response to the cause. Each day a $5 bill was found among the donations. To these three unknown friends of the children, the workers express their keen appreciation.

Many persons have signified a desire to donate children's books, therefore, a centrally located place at the Glendale Phonograph & Piano Company, 109 North Brand boulevard, has been obtained where books may be left during the next ten days, until June 18, to add to the children's small library. After that time any books to be donated to the hospital-school may be left with Kendall Tune, 1801 Vassar street (one block south of San Fernando road and corner of Brand boulevard).

PUEBLO IN DESPERATE PLIGHT--NEEDS ASSISTANCE

Water Supply Meager—Many Dead Animals Contaminate Atmosphere—Epidemic of Typhoid and Smallpox Feared—Financial Assistance Needed

(By International News Service)

PUEBLO, Colo., June 7.—After four days of terror and suffering, Pueblo was astir today in an optimistic mood.

For the first time since Thursday night, citizens slumber was not disturbed by alarms of floods. The churning, rushing waters of the eddying currents was replaced by the hum of motor patrols and the buzz of attempted business resumption.

The day broke fair and warmer, and despite the favorable effect these weather conditions had upon the people, it opens up another menace that may now prove more disastrous than the floods themselves. Disease, contagion, epidemic, are the dangers.

An anti-fly campaign has been started, but it is almost a hopeless battle. Dead animals are buried under wreckage in many parts of the city and stench from these carcasses is already pervading the community, severely handicapping the clean-up work.

The water supply is still inadequate and water may be used only for cooking and drinking, it being necessary to boil it for the latter use.

Willis H. Parker, city commissioner, stated this morning, when seen at the city government's temporary headquarters, that the property loss in the flood will reach in the neighborhood of $20,000,000 and that the loss of life estimate is impossible of accuracy. He believes, however, that at least 300 persons perished. Hundreds of persons were trapped in the rush of water.

Parker urges that money be sent to Pueblo at once. "Food can be gotten in all right," he said, "but the lack of financial assistance will hamper the work of relief."

Parker declared that stories of looting were exaggerated, saying that the military has had little trouble in that respect.

Looking for a needle in the proverbial haystack would be child's play compared with the task forced upon the second largest city in Colorado. Only those who have seen with their own eyes the appalling destruction can even have a slight conception of what has to be done immediately if the survivors of water are to escape death by pestilence.

The city is nearly 100 per cent busy in reconstruction work.

Lieut.-Col. Paul Newton, military commander in the city, has issued a proclamation requiring all able-bodied men to go to work.

"Visiting sight-seers must shoulder a pick and shovel or leave the city," Newton announced and orders were issued to the military forces to keep a vigilant watch for slackers.

Thirty-three cents an hour has been fixed as the wage of laborers cleaning up the mass of wreckage.

Old King Had Jazz Band

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 7—Going about knocking down other king's cities, when they failed to "kiss his feet," was one of the playful habits of Sennacherib, ruler of Egypt some 2,000 years ago, according to cuneform tablets just placed on exhibition at the University of Chicago.

Sennacherib kept a "diary" of his "playful habits." The big stone slabs were brought to America recently, with other records of ancient Egypt, by Professor James H. Breasted.

"In my third campaign I marched against the land of Hatti (Palestine)," said Sennacherib in his "diary."

"The kings of the west land brought rich gifts before me for the fourth time and kissed my feet.

"Hezekiah, the Judean, who had not submitted to my yoke I besieged and took forty-six of his strong-walled cities, together with countless small cities by assault of battering rams and siege engines, attack by foot soldiers and by mines and breaches.

"I captured some 200,000 people, small and great, male and female, horses, mules, asses, camels, oxen and innumerable sheep.

"Hezekiah himself I shut up in Jerusalem like a caged bird."

Other tablets showed that Sennacherib had a Cheops "jazz band," a dromedary "toddle" and desert "home brew."

DIALS ON JAPANESE CLOCKS REVOLVE

According to T. Philip Terry, author of Terry's "Guide to Japan", many of the old clocks in Japan have revolving dials, the hands remaining still while the dials move around them. In villages where the people are too poor to own individual clocks the bronzes on the ever present Buddhist temple strike the fleeting hours on the resounding temple gong—the deep, booming voice of which tells the farmer when to arise and go to his field and when to retire. Thus does primitive religion awaken to its possibilities and to the fugitive nature of terrestrial time.

X-Ray Reveals Shoe Sole

(By International News Service)

LONDON, June 7—A novel X-ray apparatus, by which one can actually see whether shoes fit, has been installed in a London boot-maker's shop. The purchaser of the shoes stands on the platform of the apparatus and the X-ray view of the foot and shoes is displayed to the purchaser and assistant. The apparatus is perfectly safe, as it would require exposure for a very lengthy period for the small amount of rays used to produce any ill effects.

HISTORIANS DUPED ON PURCHASE OF TANKS

(By International News Service)

PARIS, June 7—Thirty-five francs, or less than $3 apiece—such is the price at which the French government has been selling British tanks which lie out along the Chemin des Dames. Most of them are damaged but as old iron it is thought they would realize at least $600. The tanks are scattered around the Fort de la Pompelli, which has been classified as a historical monument. When the Rheims Reconstruction Society heard that it was proposed to sell the tanks it offered to buy some to be kept as mementos of the fierce battle which raged around the fort. The society was referred back to the contractor who had bought the tanks and he priced them at 3000 francs each. The price was accepted and it was only much later that the society heard that the contractor had bought the tanks at 35 francs apiece.

Kept Chickens in House

(By International News Service)

HAVERHILL, Mass., June 7—The feathered variety of chickens ended the happy married life of Joseph Parquette and his wife, according to a separation suit brought by the latter. Mrs. Parquette charges that her husband brought a flock of chickens to live in their home, promising to erect another domicile, which failed to materialize.

Finds Relic of Civilization

(By International News Service)

BOSTON, June 7—To the stork goes the blame or credit for Charles Thurston's discovery of a bottle of ripe old champagne. The bottle of "contraband" was presented to Thurston on his marriage day, forty-seven years ago, to be opened when his first baby was born. The champagne, laid away and forgotten, came to light when Thurston prepared to move. He will not wait for the stork.

To Trace "River of Doubt"

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, JUNE 7—Six American scientists, one expert rifle shot, motion picture and camera men will sail from New York on the steamship Santa Elisa this month for a two years' journey in an effort to trace the late Theodore Roosevelt's "River of Doubt" to its source.

The expedition, to be known as the Mulford Biological Expedition, will have for its chief object the gathering of scientific data concerning the flora, fauna and inhabitants of the entirely unknown headwaters of the Amazon and Madeira rivers. Dr. Henry H. Rusby, of Columbia University, will be in charge of the expedition.

British cigar makers to the number of 75 per cent are stated to be unemployed.

NO IDLERS IN RALSTON FAMILY

According to reports from those who know there are no idlers in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ralston, former residents of this city, who still call it home and plan to return here.

Esther Ralston had two parts in the actors' benefit put on last week at the Speedway. She was in Sid Grauman's beauty show Saturday and likewise had a part in the little skit put on by Daniel Frohman.

Glendalians who saw Bessie Love in "The Midlanders" at the Glendale theater last week doubtless noticed that Bradford and Carleton Ralston were in the cast. Bradford, who is 14, had quite an important role as the foster-brother of the orphaned heroine. Carleton, who is but 8, bore the same relation to the star, but was less in the foreground.

Howard Ralston is now playing in "Little Lord Fauntleroy," with Mary Pickford, who recently complimented his mother on his physical development as well as his achievements as an actor and said she was planning to make him a lead very soon.

(By International News Service)

LONDON, June 7—A polo team composed of the best players in Spain which will be captained by the King of Spain, is to visit England this month. The Indian Polo Association has decided to ask the United States to send a team to India in the course of the next year or two. The strongest team at present in India is composed of native players. It is hopeu that arrangements will be made to have international matches between the United States and Spain.

A Pussyfoot Victim

(By International News Service)

LONDON, June 7—In reply to a London tradesman's advertisement for a servant the following was received: "I'm a female of the human species. Wages required $200 plus food and three bottles of stout per day. I wish to leave my present place because they are pussyfoot."

BREEZY NEWS NOTES FROM GLEN AND DALE

Registration Urged, That Southern California May Not Be Bested by Northland—Highways Will Be Posted To Direct Strangers to City of Glendale

Glen and Dale had their pictures taken last Sunday afternoon. If you want to see who's who, just open your program (when you get it) and turn to some page near the front and look. No, we're not particularly good looking, but we didn't break the kodak. We weren't chosen for our appearance but because we could work and were interested in helping the young people of Glendale and the whole state of California.

Have you ordered your badge and program? If not, do it now. Cut out the blank, fill it out and send it to C. E. headquarters. Glen and Dale are still after the county prize and need 150 more. Just 1633 have already sent in their registrations. The northern part of the state is fast reaching its quota. Will Glen and Dale be behind? We say "No!" if you will all help as you have been doing.

The general convention committee held a meeting in the Christian church Sunday afternoon and had a long session, for there is now much to be done. No committee chairman is worrying about having the biggest or heaviest job of the convention. Each one has enough.

Miss Ethel Preston will have a meeting of the entertainment committee and others who will assist in the canvass at her headquarters opposite the Christian Endeavor auditorium, in the Christian church next Saturday evening. There will be a social time and directions given for the canvass, which will be on June 18.

Harry Marple of the information committee, assisted by C. C. Stoler of the decoratinos committee, is to see that roads leading into Glendale are posted with signs: "Glendale State Christian Endeavor Convention, June 25 to 29." These may be placed on highways some distance away to direct strangers and be a sort of a "Glendale Straight Ahead" sign.

Many people have been wondering what we do at a C. E. convention. We've told you of our parade, our picnics, our luncheons and breakfasts, and here is a general outline of work for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday: From 8 to 8:15 a. m., there will be Quiet Hour services in five places, followed by Bible classes under devout, well-trained leaders, until 9 a. m. From 9:10 to 10:00 there will be conferences on C. E. methods applicable to any young people's work. There will be 25 of these going on simultaneously in carious churches and school auditoriums. From 10:10 to 11:00 there will be denominational conferences in the respective churches. The young people's society is not to draw from the church but to draw to and strengthen the church, the motto of the C. E. being: "For Christ and the Church." Six of these denominational conferences are arranged.

From 11:10 to 12:30 the message of the morning will be delivered at the C. E. auditorium.

At 2:30, the afternoon meeting will be held in the auditorium with the exception of Monday, which is given over to recreation.

At 7:30, the message of the evening and a mass meeting at the C. E. auditorium.

Now fill out your blank and be one of us June 25 to 29.

GLEN AND DALE.

BURGLARS STILL AT WORK HERE

The home of C. L. Kidder, 4204 Parkdale avenue, was entered yesterday between 10:00 and 12 a. m., and a $5 gold coin taken. Neighbors saw a tall, slender man wearing soldiers' trousers, leggings and hat and carrying a grip, going towards the river. Some said that they saw this man taking letters from Mr. Kidder's mail box.

A bicycle belonging to Sidney Chambers of 936 South Glendale avenue, was stolen last night from in front of the Glendale theater.

American Women Brilliant

(By International News Service)

WORCESTER, June 7.—Women will take an active part in governing Palestine, according to Mrs. Chain Weissman, wife of the Jewish leader, in an interview here.

"The declaration of the return to Palestine has not only been given to the Jewish men but also to the women and they will not allow the men to dominate in Palestine," she declares.

"The American woman is more brilliant than the English woman, but not as reserved," Mrs. Weissman said.

The oldest tree in the world is said to be in Ceylon, and is now in its twenty-second century.

PLEASANT SURPRISE FOR MRS. MORGAN

A group of twenty-three friends from Hollywood, Burbank and Glendale swooped down upon Mrs. J. T. Morgan of 1142 Campbell street last evening, with all the "makin's" of a party—good will, good cheer, substantial refreshments and even the flowers for the decorations.

The raison d'etre for the jollification was Mrs. Morgan's birthday anniversary, and quickly recovering from her surprise, she rose to the occasion and entered into the spirit of the affair.

Music and dancing were the diversions of the evening, at whose close the refreshments were enjoyed.

AMERICANS BUILD A STADIUM AT SOISSONS

(By International News Service)

PARIS, June 7—The first stone of a huge stadium to be erected by the American Committee for Devastated France at Soissons has just been laid. The stadium, the greater part to be built in concrete, is to cost a little more than $42,000 and it will take four months to complete. It will have a sitting capacity of 2,500 and will include a club house and a 540-yard cinder track, three football grounds, six basketball enclosures, four tennis courts, a swimming pool and a children's playground. Already thirty clubs have been formed in and around Soissons and it is expected that some 2,000 athletes will make use of the stadium.

This will be the second stadium presented by Americans to France, the other being at Joinville, near Paris, which was inaugurated by General Pershing in 1919, and it is hoped that the 1924 Olympic games will be held there.

GRAND'S THE WORD

"If I stole fifty kisses from you, what kind of larceny would it be?" asked the young man.

"I should call it just grand," replied the sweet young thing, without a quiver of an eyelash.

CITY WELFARE CLUB DISCUSSES LOCAL CONDITIONS IN GLENDALE

The East Glendale Welfare association held a meeting last evening at the Broadway school.

The principal topic of discussion was the candidates for the various offices to be filled at the coming election. The Sycamore canyon road improvement project was also touched upon.

The next meeting will be held Monday evening, June 27, the evening before the election. Candidates for election will be invited to speak at this meeting.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES

(By International News Service)

Dixie Davis let the Yanks down with two hits, scoring his second victory for St. Louis in five days.

Keenan and Botts, sharp shooting for the Phillies, were hammered hard by the Cardinals while Doak gave up but three hits in seven innings and Schupp allowed none in two.

Home runs by Cobb, Dauss and Blue helped the Tigers tame Philadelphia.

A wild pitch in the seventh by Fay Caldwell enabled the Red Sox to trim the Indians.

Sensational fielding by Griffith, Olson and other members of the Dodgers behind Penther's pitching spelled defeat for the Cubs.

Four hits netted the Reds one run which was six short of being enough to win from Boston.

The Senators outhit the White Sox in a slugging bee.

The Pirates returned to first place when Cutshaw's single in the last of the ninth brought home the winning run against New York.

DECORATORS FOR CONVENTION MEET

The committee on decorations for the coming state Christian Endeavor convention, held a meeting last evening at the home of the chairman, C. C. Stoler, 339 West Colorado street.

The home was artistically adorned with the decoration committee's colors, purple and gold.

An interesting and enthusiastic discussion of the plans for decoration for the convention was entered into by the fifteen members present, and when the business of the meeting had been dispatched, a social session was enjoyed, during which the hostess, Mrs. Stoler, served cake and hot chocolate.

FORMER RESIDENTS OF PUEBLO ARE STIRRED

A number of Glendalians came to California from Pueblo, Colo., and for that reason are more seriously stirred by the tragic events of the past week in that ill-fated city than the average sympathetic citizen. Among these are S. L. Rowland, L. B. Beach, Wayne Frank, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ripley and Noble Ripley.

MEETING OF BRAND BOULEVARD ASS'N

Mattison B. Jones, chairman, has called a meeting of the Brand Boulevard Improvement association for Friday evening, at 7:45, at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters. This is a very important meeting and all property owners interested in the improvement of that boulevard are urged to be present.

Earth produced from certain mines in Colorado has been found excellent for exterminating beetles.

COMMERCE CHAMBER INDORSES PUEBLO RELIEF WORK IN THIS CITY

Members of the chamber of commerce directorate held their usual business session today (Tuesday), at the chamber headquarters following luncheon at a restaurant. Those present were: President Cooper, Secretary Rhoades, and Directors Kent, Bentley, Ferry, Emery, White, Campbell, Lusby, Hollister and Gregg.

The financial report for the month of May, submitted by Mr. Rhoades, showed funds on hand June 1, $2692.49.

The secretary's action in sending a telegram expressing the sympathy of the chamber to the secretary of the Pueblo Commercial club was approved by the directors. When the matter of financial action to be taken was brought up, Mr. White said it was his understanding that action in aid of Pueblo had been turned over to the local Red Cross chapter through which subscriptions would be handled. Mr. White also announced the intention of the City Teachers' Club to repeat its "Deestrick Skule" as a benefit for Pueblo sufferers and asked for the indorsement of the chamber which was voted.

The directors also indorsed by vote a performance for the Sick Benefit fund of the local American Legion to be given at the Palace Grand, June 15.

A communication from the Burbank chamber of commerce enclosing a resolution which it asked the Glendale chamber to indorse favoring the establishment in California of state police similar to the Pennsylvania organization, to take the place of sheriffs, was referred to the committee on legislation.

No action was taken on a communication inviting the chamber to become a member of the San Fernando valley chamber of commerce.

A proposition that the chamber cooperate with the city in a "clean-up day" for lots, alleys, etc., was referred to the civics committee.

Mr. White as chairman of the automobile park committee reported a communication received from the Pacific Electric company declaring that on account of hazard from its swiftly running trains it could not consider leasing for an auto park land adjoining its tracks west of Central avenue. Mr. White stated he would call his committee together to consider another appeal to the Pacific Electric or the consideration of another site. Messrs. Cooper and Rhoades suggested as a fine site the triangle at Glendale avenue and Verdugo road.

New members voted into the chamber were: E. F. Sanders, Herbert R. Taylor, Robert Jensen and Turner, Dahnken & Langley.

THEATERS

Palace Grand

Buck Jones, the cowboy star who has become so popular within the past year, at the Palace Grand theater, in his latest William Fox picture, "The One-Man Trail." Buck does some fancy and some daredevil riding in this picture, and has a fine acting part. Buck's love-making is said to be quite a treat in itself. Beatrice Burnham plays opposite him. In the cast also are Helene Rosson and James Farley.

The story was written by Jack Strumwasser and the scenario is from the pen of William K. Howard. Bernard Durning directed the picture and Frank Good photographed it.

A two-reel comedy special, "Movie Mad," Bray pictographs and the latest news views complete the bill.

Glendale Theater

"Black Beauty," Anna Sewell's immortal story, is the feature picture at the Glendale theater today.

No cleaner, more wholesome or more interesting story has ever been presented on the screen. The story is of peculiarly wide appeal, also; it is a picture that will be enjoyed by the whole family, old or young.

The photography of this Vitagraph special is ideal, and altogether the picture presentation of the story is considered by many to make more real and more impressive its wholesome lessons than any printed page could make them.

Other film numbers and a special organ selection by Mme. Maude Moore Clement, complete this fine program.

OBITUARY NOTICE

Death of H. E. Gulvin

H. E. Gulvin, a former resident of Glendale, died Monday at his home at Long Beach at the age of 69 years. He leaves a widow, three sons and a daughter. Funeral services will be held at his late home, Wednesday at 11 o'clock.

A cool, wet summer is healthy weather for babies, judging by recent records of infantile mortality.

MRS. CHAS. H. TOLL CONTINUES HEAD OF EBELL CLUB

Mrs. Charles H. Toll, 1635 Kenneth road, was reelected president of the Ebell Club of Los Angeles at the annual meeting yesterday.

This is an honor Mrs. Toll has won by her successful administration of the affairs of the club during the past year. Annual reports given yesterday showed excellent results achieved in the fourteen departments into which the club is divided.

CITY SCHOOL BOARD ELECTS TEACHERS FOR NEXT YEAR

At a meeting of trustees of city schools held at the Intermediate Monday night, the teaching staff, with a few exceptions caused by resignation, was reelected with the understanding that the salary schedule of last year would be continued as long as funds held out; that if they proved insufficient a week or two of the school year would be cut off.

Mr. White reported that County Superintendent Keppel explained the shortage by radical cuts in the school tax made by the county supervisors, stating that a reduction of half the amount allowed last year would still provide funds enough to maintain schools on the basis of 1920-21. He also said that through a law passed by the legislature it might be possible to increase the district tax to cover the deficiency.

The board therefore decided to go ahead on the same basis as last year. The list of new teachers elected included: Miss Mary Struble, Mrs. Caroline H. Wilkinson, Mrs. Mary Aldrich, Miss Euliel Ballenger and Miss Margaret Lauderdale as kindergarten teacher. All the ladies are residents of Glendale.

Norman Whytock was made vice principal for boys at Intermediate and William Samis vice principal at Cerritos.

The board also decided as an economy measure to eliminate the special supervision of penmanship and agriculture.

Running upstairs instead of walking will increase the work of the heart by one-fourth.
